4th International Conference on Functional Neurological Disorders

JUNE 19-21, 2022, BOSTON, MA

About the International Conference on Functional Neurological Disorders

The Functional Neurological Disorder Society (FNDS) a professional society of healthcare professionals, scientists, and students interested in functional neurological disorders. We invite your organization to support our inaugural meeting as a society: the 4th International Conference on Functional Neurological Disorders in Boston, MA June 19-21, 2022.

Our group previously co-sponsored three international conferences; most recently the 2017 meeting, attended by 550 individuals, indicating that the 2022 meeting will likely attract an impressive group of professionals in the medical field.

The main objectives of the association are built around the diagnosis, treatment, and research pertaining to functional neurological disorders, and the conference is fully multi-disciplinary. International speakers and attendees will range in expertise and come from backgrounds including neurology, psychiatry, rehabilitation, psychology, physical therapy, occupational therapy, nursing, social work, and ethics, and plenary sessions will feature a wide range of topics such as epilepsy, migraine, Parkinson's disease, psychedelic drugs, and psychotropic drugs. Speakers include key opinion leaders in the fields of movement disorders neurology, epilepsy, neuropsychiatry, and consult liaison psychiatry.

View the program for speakers and topics.

Take the next step by submitting the application or contact FNDS Executive Director, Kim Schardin, at +1 (414) 918-9814 or kschardin@FNDSociety.org with questions.
