4th International Conference on Functional Neurological Disorders

JUNE 14-16, 2020, BOSTON, MA

About the International Conference on Functional Neurological Disorders

The Functional Neurological Disorder Society (FNDS) is a newly founded professional society of healthcare professionals, scientists, and students who are interested in functional neurological disorders. While this group previously hosted conferences, the society's inaugural meeting taking place in June 2020 will cover all functional neurological disorders, including sessions on symptoms such as dizziness, speech and cognitive symptoms.

This multi-disciplinary conference brings together leading international experts from a range of backgrounds including neurology, physiology, psychiatry, rehabilitation, psychology, physical therapy, occupational therapy, nursing, social work, and ethics. The conference is suitable for anyone wanting to improve their clinical skills in this area as well as those with a research interest in this fascinating and evolving topic. The group's 2017 international conference was attended by 550 individuals, indicating that the 2020 meeting will be attended by an impressive group of professionals in the medical field. Visit fndsociety.org/meetings/2020/program to view the most recent draft of the 2020 program.

We are pleased to invite your organization to support this exciting conference. Should you wish to discuss or expand upon our opportunities listed, contact FNDS Executive Director Kim Schardin at +1 (414) 918-9814 or kschardin@fndsociety.org.
